Athletic shoes (also called "running shoes") are made of fabric, rubber, and plastic. They are made for people to wear while they are doing sports or recreational activities. Athletic shoes like spikes, give grip to sprinting on the athletic track.

Dress shoes are made for people to wear when they are wearing formal clothes such as a suit and tie or a tuxedo. Dress shoes are normally made from dark-colored leather that is shined using shoe polish. People working in professions such as business, law, and politics wear dress shoes. People working in restaurants or retail stores may also wear dress shoes.

Work shoes are designed for people who work in construction or factory jobs. Work shoes often have a steel toe cover to protect the person's toes. Work shoes are usually made of strong leather, to protect the person's foot from sharp objects or dangerous chemicals.

BRECKING NEWS :

70 : percentage offer don't miss this offer

Many of us wear shoes past their "expiration" date simply because we don't know what to look for! As a general rule of thumb, shoes should be replaced every 8-12 months for most people or every 500-700 kilometres for running shoes. Some shoes will last longer, and some will wear out more quickly.

don't Miss it' :

On average, shoes can last from two to seven years depending on the quality and the way they are cared for. Many people wonder how long their sneakers or flats will last. If you are actively using these shoes, you'll have to invest in a new pair faster than a pair that's worn for fashion.
